Gideon Levy is a well-known Israeli journalist and peace activist. He works for "Ha'aretz", which is one of Israel's leading newspapers. Mr. Levy is one of the few journalists in Israel who focuses on the occupation and its on-the-ground effects in Palestine. His colleague Catrin Ormestad is a Swedish journalist who has lived in Israel since 1993. Her work in the Gaza Strip has become immensely important, particularly since Israeli citizens have no longer been able to enter Gaza as of the 2006 summer war in Lebanon.
